THIS HAPPENED BEFORE YOU CAME TO PLAINVILLE, DOCTOR!

DAVE AND PHIL HAD BEEN THE BEST OF FRIENDS EVER SINCE THEY WERE KIDS.

THEY WERE ALWAYS SPARRING AROUND TOGETHER, EVEN AFTER THEY WERE FULL GROWN. IT WAS ONLY IN FUN... BUT ONE DAY DAVE CAME UP WITH A KNOCKOUT PUNCH THAT SLAMMED PHIL'S HEAD SO HARD AGAINST THE WALL, THAT PHIL NEVER GOT UP...

DAVE WAS SO SHOCKED, HIS MIND CRACKED RIGHT ON THE SPOT. HE BLANKED OUT... DIDN'T EVEN KNOW WHO HE WAS...

WE SENT HIM AWAY TO THAT MENTAL HOSPITAL, AND WE TRIED TO HUSH UP THE STORY, BUT IT LEAKED OUT TO SOME OF THE CITY NEWSPAPERS, AND THEY WROTE IT UP AS IF PHIL HAD BEEN MURDERED BY SOMEONE UNKNOWN.

DAVE MUST'VE COME ACROSS ONE OF THOSE OLD NEWS-PAPERS, I GUESS IT BROUGHT PART OF HIS MEMORY BACK! AND SO HE ESCAPED AND CAME HERE.

POOR DAVE DIDN'T REMEMBER ENOUGH TO KNOW THAT THE MAN HE WAS AFTER...

...WAS HIMSELF!

POOR DAVE, INDEED! BUT HIS MIND IS MERCIFULLY BLANK AGAIN, AND WITH THE HELP OF THE DOCTORS AT THE HOSPITAL, HE SHALL RECOVER. AND SO, AS LONG AS THIS TALE LINGERS IN YOUR MEMORY... ONLY YOU SHALL BE HAUNTED.

PETER ILLYVITCH'S LANDBRIDGE

Peter Illyvitch was born lazy if we accept the account given of his life by his mother. He was contented when he did nothing. But living in a state where you had to work or else dig salt in the mines of Siberia he found himself in the record department of the Buguna cap factory. On the sixteenth day of June, Peter Illyvitch was seated at his desk. He had that far away look in his eyes. He held a pencil in his hand and he was doodling, and then in walked Commissar Nitko Buscar. The Commissar was looking for evidences of inefficiency in the Buguna cap factory. For production was seventy per cent below normal.

"What are you doing?" demanded a bull-like voice that could raise the roof off any factory.

Peter Illyvitch turned around and his heart almost stopped still. He and millions of others had seen the picture of the Commissar, and now that terrible creature, with powers of life and death was in front of him.

"What are you doing?" repeated the voice and the young man to whom those words were addressed had to do some fast thinking. Far in front of him, and in view of the Commissar, was a sheet of paper with all kind of lines on it. Some were vertical, some were horizontal, and some went in all directions. That sheet of paper on the sixteenth day of June was destined to change the face of the world.

"Something I have been doing for years," finally replied the young man.

The Commissar took the sheet of paper and glanced at it. It was evident he couldn't understand the significance of those meaningless lines.

"Explain this to me and be brief," he demanded.

There was a slight smile on the face of Peter Illyvitch. What did he have to lose? He would be sent to a slave labor camp anyway. He might as well have some fun before he left the factory.

"Millions of years ago," he began, "there was a land bridge connecting Asia and the North American continent. Climate conditions in those days were different. I am reconstructing that landbridge. We build a dam across the Bering Sea. This keeps all the cold water and air behind the dam. The currents that warm the United States are shifted to Siberia. They then go towards European Russia. The net result will be a pleasant warm climate for all of Russia, and the climate in the United States will freeze the people. Serves them right. A new way for us to fight the cold war. Make it really cold for those Americans."

Commissar Nitko Buscar knew he was out of favor with the ruling group in Moscow. In a week there was to be the twenty-seventh annual meeting of the Scientists. Here was something big. A chance for him to be the top man in Russia. The people were sick and tired of being cold. A warm Russia for Russians and a cold United States for Americans was a slogan that would work. This was something bigger and better than the Hydrogen bomb.

"We leave within a hour," ordered the Commissar. "Go home and pack your clothing."

"What clothing?" asked the young man. And then in reply to that silly question, he clarified matters by adding, "The only clothing I have is on me. What home? For nine years I have been waiting for a home. I sleep in the basement of the factory."

The twenty-seventh annual meeting of the Scientists was taking place. Reporters from all countries were there. John Winslow, of the Consolidated Press was covering the meeting for the United States papers.

"A lot of stuff will be dishd out to us," he said to Herbert Morley, of the British Press Association. "But it won't make the headlines."

He was wrong. Commissar Nitko Buscar spoke about a man who had the finest engineering ability in the country. They should all be prepared to hear something startling. Peter Illyvitch was introduced.

"Who is he?" asked everyone.

Then the young man spoke. There was quiet in that vast hall. John Winslow pinched himself twice.

"Is that guy nuts or are they having some fun," he said to himself. "I am going to ask a question."

When the young man had finished, the reporter from the United States arose.

"Can you give me a definite date when this project will begin?"

That was the last thing in the world that had entered the Commissar's mind. Before he could reply, Peter Illyvitch spoke.

"My plan is so simple we can begin at once. We simply extend our railroad tracks to the coast. Then keep on dumping rocks into the Bering Sea. We have millions of people that can be used as a labor force. We have the rocks in our mountains. Actually all we do is move our mountains. We need no cement nor steel. And within a year, if you give me a force of five million workers, the landbridge will be reconstructed."

John Winslow had the reporter's knack of seeing a dream put into something real. He just turned his attention to the Commissar and spoke.

"Are you ready to give the word now? It is evident that by tomorrow this wonderful project can be started."

Commissar Nitko Buscar was caught. It seems that all he wanted was to have some publicity. There would be a talk about the plan and then it would be forgotten, but that American reporter had put him on the spot. He, Nitko Morgavitcha Snutka Buscar, was not going to let anyone make a fool out of him.

"I give the word now," he smiled. "Construction begins tomorrow."

"And you give me permission to accompany the working crews and inform the world of the progress of this landbridge," added the reporter.

"That I do," granted the Commissar.

At first the people in America thought this was one big joke. Then came in pictures of millions of people in Russia moving. The Russian government permitted live television broadcasts to be made to the world. People saw trains moving out on tracks built on rocks. It was like extending a big jetty. At once an emergency meeting was called in Washington, D. C. Top scientists attended the meeting. John Winslow was called back to make his report.

"They are half way through with the landbridge," he announced. "They will finish it on schedule."

"Does that mean that we will all freeze in the United States and that Russia will have a delightful tropical climate?" asked Professor Mortimer Hummell.

"That is what they plan to achieve," explained the reporter. "They are moving their mountains and creating plains."

"We cannot stand by idly and see our country threatened by a cold wave," interrupted Professor Edward Botham. "Scientists, I call upon you in the name of humanity to devise some plan to counteract this terrible plan."

The reporter flew back to Russia. He spoke to Peter Illyvitch who was now the most famous man in the world.

"Do you realize what you are doing?"

The most famous man shrugged his shoulders. He was really enjoying life, and the workers were being well fed. They seemed contented.

And then came the day when the last shipment of rocks were dropped into place. The landbridge was finished! In the United States people were rushing to stores to buy winter overcoats and blankets. And then twenty-four hours later the terrible changes in temperature took place. But something had gone wrong. The average temperature in Russia fell to about 90 below zero. Nothing moved — neither human nor animal. In the United States the reverse process took place. A delightful average tropical temperature blanketed the United States. It was like an eternal summer day.

"What do I do?" shouted Peter Illyvitch in fright to the reporter.

"You and the workers better cross that landbridge into America before you all freeze solid."

So five million and two Russians — including the Commissar and the self-styled engineer became refugees into our Country. The United States heaped all kinds of honors on Peter Illyvitch.

"He was really on our side," smiled those who wanted to appear wise.

THE END

THERE IT WAS, BURNING AND EXPLODING FROM SOME MYSTERIOUS FORCE RAGING INSIDE IT, SOON IT WOULD BE ENDED, DRIFTING THROUGH FATHOMLESS SPACE AS DUST AND ASHES IN A PERPETUAL NIGHT WITH NOTHING LEFT OF ITS GRANDEUR...

THE SPECTACLE GREW FIERCE, THE FIERY DESTRUCTION MORE APPALLING AS BUILDINGS COLLAPSED AND EXPLOSIONS TORE PIECES OF THE GLOBE AWAY...

AND THERE YOU ARE, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN. THAT'S THE WAY IT CAN HAPPEN. A VAST ALL-CONSUMING CONFLAGRATION SOME TIME IN THE FUTURE COULD SPELL THE END OF ANY PLANET.

SCIENCE HAD WORKED HARD TO PRESENT THIS EXAMPLE OF A WORLD ENDING...

BUT NOT EVERYONE WAS CONVINCENCED...

IT WAS GREAT! IT LOOKED LIKE THE REAL THING!

THE PEOPLE HAVE TO BE EDUCATED TO HANDLE THOSE NEW ATOMIC GASES WITH CARE!

SURE WAS GREAT, HOW THEY DID IT-- BUT IT COULD NEVER HAPPEN!

OF COURSE NOT! THOSE EGGHEADS ARE ALWAYS TRYING TO SCARE US!

THIS MAGAZINE IS HAUNTED

MEANWHILE A MARTIAN PATROL WAS STARING DOWN ON EARTH...

LOOK, THERE, THOSE EXPLOSIONS! THAT'S IN EARTH'S ORBIT!

MARS HAD WAITED A LONG TIME BEFORE UNDERTAKING THIS RECONNAISSANCE OF EARTH...

HMM... CONTACT ALL CRAFT COMMANDERS AT ONCE!

I AM CONVINCED THE BURNING SPHERE WAS EARTH! WE SHALL RETURN TO THE HOME-PLANET!

YOU ARE MOST WISE! EARTH HAS DESTROYED ITSELF.

WHAT PROFIT WOULD THERE BE IN INVADING A CHARRED GLOBE?

AT THAT MOMENT...

AHH, THOSE EGGHEADS! I'LL BET THEY SPENT A LOAD OF MONEY ON THAT DEMONSTRATION.

YEAH-- AND FOR WHAT? WHAT GOOD DID IT DO?

A New Hobby Gives You A Brand New Interest!

Yes, anyone from 5 to 80 can draw or sketch or paint anything now—the very first time you use the "Magic Art Reproducer" like a professional artist—no matter how "hopeless" you think you are! An unlimited variety and amount of drawings can be made. Art is admired and respected by everyone. Most hobbies are expensive, but drawing costs very little, just some inexpensive paper, pencils, crayons, or paint. No costly upkeep, nothing to wear out, no parts to replace. It automatically reproduces anything you want to draw on any sheet of paper. Then easily and quickly follow the lines of the "picture image" with your pencil... and you have an accurate original drawing that anyone would think an artist had done. No guesswork, no judging sizes and shapes! Reproduces black and white and actual colors for paintings.

Also makes drawing larger or smaller as you wish.

Anyone can use it on any desk, table, board, etc.—indoors or outdoors! Light and compact to be taken wherever you wish. No other lessons or practice or talent needed! You'll be proud to frame your original drawings for a more distinctive touch to your home. Give them to friends as gifts that are "different," appreciated.

How fun! Be popular! Everyone will ask you to draw them. You'll be in demand! After a short time, you may find you can draw well without the "Magic Art Reproducer" because you have developed a "knack" and feeling artists have—which may lead to a good paying art career.
